Good Afternoon,

Although our school building is closed, school is open. It is wonderful to see all the learning taking place throughout the school from pre K show and tell to middle school science projects. I want to personally thank the parents who have been so supportive and appreciative of the teachers and recognize their hard work and dedication.

Just a reminder that Tuesday Tales will continue on through out our break, please join us on Facebook at 7:15 pm every Tuesday for a story and prayer before bedtime. Morning announcements will continue through Wednesday, April 8th and will resume again on Monday, April 20th. Thank you to all who have mad the morning announcements a part of their morning routine to begin the day with prayer, pledges and routine. This Friday night, I invite you to join me in praying the Rosary, live on Facebook, at 7:00 pm.

We hope you enjoyed the video we sent out last Sunday evening to let all of you know how much we care and miss our students. Thank you to Mrs. M for putting it all together for us! It truly was a labor of love.

Next week is Holy Week, many prayerful opportunities are available for you to participate along with your children. Please find below links to Catholic Online resource short videos centering on Palm Sunday, Holy Thursday and Good Friday. I hope you take the opportunity to view this upcoming Holy Week.

Stay Safe, Be Well and God Bless our families!

Counseling Corner

Parents, please check out the website below from PBS. It gives some helpful hints as you try to navigate through this tough time. It discusses tools we can use and teach our children. If you go to the bottom there is a link on Mindfulness.

The next link is for our parents, staff and older children. It is from the CDC about Stress and Coping. We all need to work on self-care right now. This article has suggestions and resources.

They are always so good to us!

At this time and always, we need to support one another as much as possible. Please take a look at our Family Business Directory on our website. Many restaurants are still open and stores are offering online deals. If you have a family business that you would like to promote, please email Mrs. Evans at aevans@mbscs.org. She also plans to promote deals on our social media platforms. We want to help our families up as much as possible.
